

February 23, 2017

ACTIVE LEARNING WORKSHOP NEWSFLASH

Learning Series

In this Issue:

- Workshop Detail
- Workshop Registration

Rensselaer Faculty and Staff Workshop: Course Planning- Active Learning Ideas to Keep Your Students Engaged

Faculty, Professors of Practice, Lecturers, Class Deans, and Teaching Assistants: are you are interested in learning more about the active learning exercises that you may be able to implement in your course or program? This workshop is for you! Please join us to discuss the practice of active learning, the benefits, and experience some of the more popular active learning exercises.

We are very excited to announce that we have Tracy Schierenbeck, from the Archer Center for Student Leadership Development, joining us for this interactive session. She will share her successes regarding implementation of active and experiential learning techniques in the classroom, which have proved successful in promoting a sense of community, while increasing student engagement.

This workshop will be held on Thursday, March 9th from 12:00 pm - 1:00 pm in the Beta Classroom - 1st floor of Folsom Library.

Please be sure to bring a laptop or mobile device as this will be an engaging workshop.

Maureen Fodera (Office of Undergraduate Education) and Tracy Schierenbeck (Archer Center for Student Leadership) will be teaming up to present this workshop.

Please register by Friday, March 3rd. Space is limited.