The Teaching and Learning Collaboratory is pleased to announce the 2019 Rensselaer Teaching and Learning Colloquium on May 14, 2019. The focus of this day of learning will be in support of what RPI does best within our brick and mortar walls for teaching and learning. Our plenary speaker, Dr. Nicola Allain, will speak to us in the morning about the implementation of different strategies and technologies to enhance learning and to offer further interaction. In addition, there will be several afternoon sessions to complement Dr. Allain’s presentation. The day will give us a look at additional strategies and technologies that have been implemented successfully as we look into the future of teaching at our Institute.
